A great number of canals sinking in the soils and which irrigate the marshes can be seen from the the Brault Bridge.

Traveling along the Vienne canal you will drive in the direction of Luçon. Notre-Dame cathedral and its fine spire of chiselled stone, was the see of the cathedral town where Richelieu and Colbert followed each other.

From the magic of La Rochelle to the enchantment of the Poitevin Marsh, Circuit N°29

2

Day 2 :

The Pansay manor at the heart of a 10 hectare park will provide the visitor with a castle life. You will discover the dishes served by the hosts by candlelight.

Through the Vendéen bocage, prairies, groves and helmets follow one another up to Vouvant.

Vouvant is a real village of legend with its ramparts, its medieval side streets, its Roman church with the capitals adorned with fantastic scenes and its fairy Mélusine's castle. This impression is reinforced when entering into the forest which line the town.

At the bottom of the woods, the village of Mervent which towers above the water behind the dam on the Vendée in a magnificent setting can be seen, perched on a rocky spur.

Rabelais' town, the former capital of Vendée deserves the visit between the Poitevin marsh and the forest of Mervent. The streets lined with Renaissance homes and the Terre-Neuve castle will send you in the epicurean's century.

You will have a first trip in the marsh to enjoy the strange atmosphere of the ruins of Maillezais abbey. It was built by the Bénédictins on an island washed by the sea at the end of the Xth century. You will cross the valleys of Egray and the Niortaise Sèvre in order to reach Saint-Maixent-l'École.

In the vicinity of Echiré travel around and stop at the Coudray-Salbart castle. During your dinner do not forget you are staying in a cheese country and savour the famous « chèvre du Poitou ».

From the magic of La Rochelle to the enchantment of the Poitevin Marsh, Circuit N°29

3 Day 3 :

Saint-Maixent is famous for its military School founded in 1881 and for its Roman monuments, above all the abbey church founded in the Vth century and restored in the XVIIIth century.

The screen of poplars edging the river shelters le Logis Saint-Martin, a great stone house from the XVIIIth century.

You will leave the upper Val de Sèvre to visit a region of Poitou marked by the Huguenots' presence. Like Sauvigné, the villages own two places of worship and often church and temple face each other.

After having crossed the forest of l'Hermitain you will discover a major place of the Poitevin Protestantism. Two temples transformed in exhibition centre recall the history of this community, the time of clandestine life and the repression which followed the " Révocation de l'Edit de Nantes".

In the distance the imposing church tower from the Augustins abbey of Celles-sur-Belles can be seen in the distance.

La Garette is a typical village, with its low houses lining up along the street on one side and along the water on other side.

In Coulon you will experience the wet Marsh by boarding a boat for a trip through the maze of the green Venice.

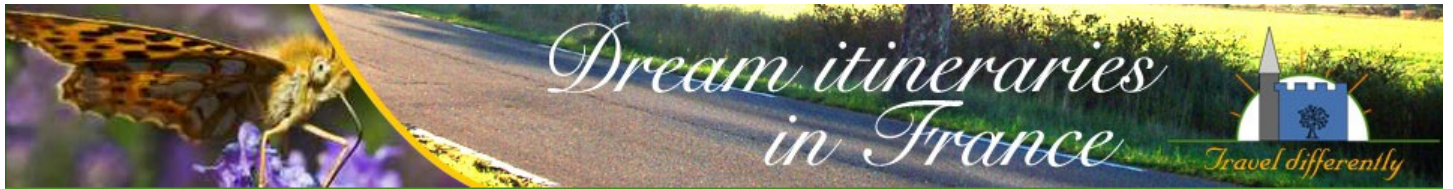

You will meet picturesque villages all along the itinerary: Le Vanneau, Arçais, Damvix with a un port shrouded in the greenery.

You will leave the Nortaise Sèvre to cross the canal of the Vieille Autise. In Maillé you will leave the wet Marsh after having seen the aqueduct which permits the Vix canal from the dried Marsh to cross the canal of the Jeune Autise from the wet Marsh.

Travelling along the Marans canal you will reach La Rochelle.
